Kelly Lytle Hernández Wins a MacArthur Fellowship

Each year the The MacArthur Foundation awards a no-strings attached fellowship of $625,000 to extraordinarily talented and creative individuals as an investment in their potential.

One recent fellow is Kelly Lytle Hernández, a historian at UCLA who is challenging long-held beliefs about the origins, ideology and systemic evolution of America's modern day incarceration and immigrant detention practices.

Her 2010 book, Migra! A History of the U.S. Border Patrol is the first significant academic history of the enforcement organization. In this book she traces the rise of the Border Patrol over the course of the 20th century from a rural community brigade to its current focus as an anti-immigrant unit of the federal government.

Her second book, City of Inmates: Conquest, Rebellion and the Rise of Human Caging in Los Angeles, 1771–1965 (2017), is an ambitious study that reconstructs the history of how Los Angeles County built what is today the largest jail system in the United States.

There are three criteria for selection of MacArthur Fellows: (1) Exceptional creativity (2) Promise for important future advances based on a track record of significant accomplishments and (3) Potential for the Fellowship to facilitate subsequent creative work.

The MacArthur Fellows Program is intended to encourage people of outstanding talent to pursue their own creative, intellectual, and professional inclinations. In keeping with this purpose, the Foundation awards fellowships directly to individuals rather than through institutions. The Foundation does not require or expect specific products or reports from MacArthur Fellows.

Editorial

Otra vez aquí estamos con La Voz. Con un poco de tristeza recordamos al amigo Rogelio F. Muñoz de Uvalde, Texas. Rogelio passed away recently and leaves a legacy that will be difficult to match. He came of age during the Chicano Movement and served as an inspiration for many activists who decided that they too might be able to go to college.

In fact, a number of them followed Rogelio to the University of Houston and at one time almost 10 guys from Uvalde lived with Roy in a small two bedroom apartment. After law school he came back to Uvalde and practiced law for more than 40 decades. Read about his life and work on pages 6 and 7.

We wish to also call to your attention in this issue of La Voz an upcoming event on October 18th: a ceremony recognizing Ray Martinez. Mr. Martinez was the Austin policeman who took out the University of Texas tower shooter in 1966. For more information on this event see page 5.

Every year the Texas Capitol is the site of the Texas Book Festival. Authors from around the county come to Austin and read or discuss their latest works with the public at this free event.

We have profiled some of these authors on pages 12 thru 15. Make the time to listen and visit with them. You will be surprised to learn how many of them actually reside in Austin, Texas.

Here is something to think about: As we all know the President of the United States is under constant fire for a variety of things. So the question becomes, how will history books look back on his years in office as the 45th person to hold that office? I think there might exist the possibility that he will be seen as having been good for the country. I think that he prove to be the one who really woke up the country will his bad decisions, and constant stream of outrageous comments.

If voter turn-out improves next year and President Trump is defeated, part of the credit for this will have to go to the man himself for making so many people mad at him.

Finally we wish to congratualte Teresa Perez Wisley for recent election as the new Treasurer of the statewide organization Tejano Democrats. She will be working with the new president Manuel Medrano who is out of San Antonio, Texas.

United States Census Bureau™

The U.S. Census Bureau is moving forward in Central Texas with the opening of two offices in Austin and Leander ahead of the 2020 census. Complete Count committees will help guide the operations of both offices and help to insure a good count is conducted.

At an event at the Austin Public Library on Thursday, federal officials urged local leaders to make sure the area's growing population is accurately counted. The census is used to figure out how the federal government will dole out up to $675 billion to states for health care and transportation, among other things.

While many states are spending big money to make sure everyone is counted in their states, Texas lawmakers have not set aside any money for it.

"Yes, our state didn't invest money into it, but that doesn't mean it's not important," said Quincy Dunlap, the president and CEO of the Austin Area Urban League. "That means it's incumbent among us as citizens in the Central Texas region to dig in a little deeper and invest in what a complete count looks like."

Dunlap said historically some communities have been on the losing end of an inaccurate census, which is why local organizations and citizens need to make sure those underserved communities are getting counted.

"We have to acknowledge that groups and individual families get excluded," he said. "So it starts with the count. Then it rolls down into resource allocation when we have to make cuts somewhere."

While the state won't spend money on the count, local leaders in the Austin area have raised hundreds of thousands of dollars ahead of next year. Many cities across the state – including Austin – have "complete count" committees, local efforts aimed at improving a community's census count.

"It is our duty to make sure that everyone is counted to assure that school funds, fire and emergency services, health care to our community gets distributed appropriately," said Travis County Judge Sarah Eckhardt.

The bureau's new offices will be an "operational hub" for the thousands of people agency officials say they plan to hire in the coming months.

Rogelio F. Muñoz Passes Away

Adapted and Condensed from his Obituary in the Uvalde Leader News

Rogelio Fernandez Muñoz, was born 71 years ago on March 25th in Nava, Mexico, a beautiful country village. He was the sixth child of Fructuoso Muñoz and Armandina Fernandez. He lived there until he was 5 years old, when his parents immigrated to the United States with their two sons and five daughters.

When Rogelio arrived in Uvalde the schools were segregated and children suffered corporal punishment for speaking Spanish. His parents and older siblings helped him learn English and transition to school, and eventually Rogelio excelled as a student. But the kinds of inequality suffered by Mexican children in Uvalde schools also shaped his outlook. As a student, he recognized the inequalities.

To help his family with money, he sometimes picked crops during school breaks. He also worked as a sheep shearer, with taciques that shared their wisdom of life and love and tales of hardship, racism, and violence. And he remembered the hard work.

they founded the Mexican American Youth Organization in Uvalde.

After graduating from Uvalde High School in 1967, he enrolled at Southwest Texas Junior College. Together with friends: Amaro Cardona, Arturo Alonzo, and Joaquin Rodriguez, they founded the Mexican American Youth Organization in Uvalde. They organized to help improve public schools, register voters, and support campaigns to have Mexican American candidates elected to city and county government.

Rogelio believed in the power of voting. He believed that voting was a civil right and a civic duty. He helped mobilize Mexican Americans to participate in electoral politics.

Muñoz got younger students involved in MAYO and often led the initial meetings in the old two story house on Nicholas Street. When he left for The University of Texas at Austin, he stayed in touch and served as inspiration for the younger students that later followed his example who went on to attend college.

At The University of Texas at Austin he took an interest in Mexican American history and studied with towering scholars like Américo Paredes and George I. Sanchez. He excelled as a historian, helping to preserve community by conducting oral histories.

As a member of UT's MAYO chapter he met with school administrators and petitioned for more courses in Chicano Studies and helped to establish the Center for Mexican American Studies. The center was opened in 1970 and will celebrate its 50-year anniversary next year.

The center has since expanded into a center, a research institute, and the Department of Mexican American and Latino Studies. His foresight and efforts helped make change for generations of students that followed.

While he was a student at UT, Rogelio never forgot his friends in Uvalde. When the Uvalde public school walkout started in April of 1970, he would come back Uvalde and bring other students with him who would teach briefly in the freedom schools that were set up around town.

After graduating from UT, Rogelio enrolled as a law student at the University of Houston. When he made the move to Houston, about 10 friends from Uvalde ended up staying in his apartment and also enrolled at the University of Houston as undergraduates or found work. (Se trajo a todos.)

Through all this schooling and activism, he was supported by his wife, Anna Luna Muñoz. The two met in high school, and they maintained a relationship while he was at school in Austin and then in Houston. He didn't have much money, but he wrote letters and every Sunday he called her at home for a quick phone call.

When he graduated from law school in 1974, they got married. While Anna and Roy were on their honeymoon he received a phone call from his parents with the news that he passed the bar. So, they cut their honeymoon short, returned to Uvalde, and he got to work.

As a young lawyer, Rogelio started his career working in Legal Aide in Crystal City and, after a year, he opened his own law office in Uvalde. He couldn't have done it without her. She managed the office, and worked as a paralegal and a notary, all while raising four children. Together, they had Maria Elena, Patricia, Rogelio Martin and Armando Fructuoso.

In the 1980s, he agreed to represent a group of H-E-B employees that had been wrongfully terminated. In the end, the case resulted in the largest employer wrongful termination suit settled at the time.

He also answered the call to serve himself. Rogelio was appointed as county attorney in 1978. In 1985, he received a personal request from former Governor Dolph Briscoe to consider serving as district attorney. He agreed, and soon after then-Governor Mark White appointed him district attorney, making him the first Mexican American district attorney for the 38th Judicial District. He was re-elected and served in that position until he resigned and returned to private practice in 1994.

Rogelio was held in high esteem by members of the court and lawyers in Texas. He was respected by his peers and a trusted advisor. Lawyers and judges sought out his guidance. Some recalled that they learned more from watching Rogelio in court, picking juries, making arguments, and interacting with witnesses than they ever did from courses in law school, professional trainings, or conferences.

Throughout his extensive legal career, Rogelio maintained his commitment to electoral politics. Early on, he supported La Raza Unida Party and eventually became a staunch Democrat. He was an active member of the Mexican American Democratic Committee. He regularly sponsored political rallies for democratic candidates, hosting them at his office and his home. He joked that his donkeys were Democratic mascots.

In 2016, he was elected as a delegate to the national democratic convention in Philadelphia where he represented Uvalde County with pride. When he died, he was the Democratic Party chairman for Uvalde County, a founding member of the Highway 90 Democratic Coalition of Counties, and was preparing to mobilize voters relished time outside in the open air – time on a tractor, feeding his livestock, and experimenting with new crops. He also loved teaching his son Roy about caring for the ranch, their livestock, and fixing farm equipment. When Roy struggled with a project, Rogelio always knew the solution.

He loved cooking over an open flame, testing out new grills, and building his own grills. For family celebrations he grilled feasts, cooked whole goats, and for his granddaughter's birthday even bought a cajon de chino to roast a whole pig. His dogs were always by his side, and, most recently, so was his protective pet turkey.

He hired DJs and hosted dances at his home on Ft. Clark Road, but he was no stranger to going to bed by 8 p.m. even when the party outside was still raging.

As an adult, he loved returning to Nava in Mexico. He organized regular visits during Dia de los Muertos, All Souls Day in November, to pay respect to our antepasados and to see relatives still living in Mexico. He cleaned the gravesites of his grandparents and extended family and paid to have tombstones repaired. He helped organize these trips, bringing his wife, children, parents, and siblings and their children, organizing informal family reunions of the Fernandez and Muñoz families.

He enjoyed visiting with primos, tíos and tíos, and hearing stories of their family history. He also loved the food. He loved eating the caña, sugar cane, and avocados in Nava. He bought pecans by the sackful and dulces de calabaza by the pound. And he always found the need to buy one more molcajete and a new jarrón to add to his huge collection.

Although he was happiest at home, he organized family trips to places that he loved. He planned trips to Mexico City and Mazatlán to visit churches, eat good food, and to go fishing. He made road trips around Texas to buy livestock, to eat the best barbecue, and to visit historical sites.

He and Anna also traveled for their own philanthropy. For years they made trips back and forth across the border into Mexico to visit an orphanage they sponsored, Casa de Hogar in Morelos, Mexico, run Carmelite nuns. They also coordinated with Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Uvalde to support the Carmelite nuns that ran the orphanage.

All siblings remember Rogelio as being "el consentido de Mama." She adored her youngest son and made sure that he was taken care of. Part of Rogelio Muñoz's legacy are the changes he made to improve the lives of others. Rogelio Fernandez Muñoz was a beloved son, brother, father, grandfather, friend, and leader. He was an advocate for social change, for civil rights, and for American democracy. He called out injustice and spoke truth to power. He offered aid to those in need. He led a life of integrity and was a pillar of our community. As we grieve the loss of this great man, we commit to continuing his legacy and his unfinished work.

A rosary was recited Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 p.m. at Rushing Estes Knowles Mortuary in Uvalde. A funeral mass was held Thursday, Oct. 3, 2019, at 10 a.m. at Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Interment followed at Hillcrest Cemetery.

In the last days of his life, Rogelio Muñoz's family remembered him for what he loved.

People in Uvalde might know his work as a lawyer or as a civil rights activist, but his family also remembers him for what he loved. In the last days of his life, Rogelio Muñoz's family remembered the changes he made, all that he accomplished, and expressed how proud they were of his efforts. But they also laughed and cried remembering the things that he loved.

Throughout his life he carried a tremendous amount of stress and pressure. And so he found solace in his family and in the outdoors. He

Cesar Chavez Foundation Break Ground on New Affordable Housing Community in Austin, Texas

Cesar Chavez Foundation to break ground on high-quality affordable housing community in Austin named for the late Texas legislator Lena Guerrero

Austin, TX (August 27, 2019) – The Cesar Chavez Foundation (CCF) is holding a groundbreaking ceremony on August 30 at 10:00 a.m. for a new affordable housing community in Austin. Los Portales de Lena Guerrero, named for former community activist and railroad commissioner Lena Guerrero, will feature 97 units of affordable housing for families including four permanent supportive units for transitional-aged youth.

“We’re pleased to break ground on our second affordable housing community in Austin to address the needs of Latinos and working families. It’s fitting to name this property after Lena Guerrero, a positive force in the community who fought tirelessly for farmworkers and the disenfranchised,” said Paul Chavez, President, Cesar Chavez Foundation. “She embodied the values of our organization’s founder, civil rights and farm labor leader Cesar Chavez.”

The community will house a Si Se Puede Learning Center, CCF’s flagship afterschool program available to young residents. The property will feature a picnic area, playground and multi-use community space as well as provide housing and resources for transitional-aged youth in the Austin area.

The property is named after Lena Guerrero, whose work championed the rights of farmworkers. She was the second female Hispanic elected to the Texas Legislature where she was known as one of the state’s most effective lawmakers. In 1991, she became the first woman and first Hispanic to serve on the Railroad Commission of Texas where she led the effort to help independent oil and gas producers increase production in Texas at a time when the industry was struggling, and was a strong advocate for the use of alternative fuels.

Día de los Muertos is a Mexican holiday that is celebrated November 1st. and 2nd. This holiday honors family and friends who are deceased and has been celebrated for thousands of years in central and southern Mexico.

For this holiday, beautiful altars are decorated with candles, favorite foods of the deceased, photographs, sugar skulls, and flowers, marigolds to be exact. These altars are displayed in family homes offering gifts for the deceased. The celebration is moved to the cemetery late on the 1st of November and through November 2nd where the family spends the time prepping their loved ones burial site. They decorate, pray, play games, play music, and share food.

It is believed that at midnight on October 31 and into November 1st the angels or "angelitos" of children who are deceased, come to visit with their families for 24 hours. On November 2nd the spirits of the adult deceased come and join in the festivities.

In recent years, Día de los Muertos has become popular in the United States. Unfortunately, people think that it's the way Mexico celebrates Halloween. As a matter of fact, stores generally display the Día de los Muertos décor with Halloween merchandise. Disney has even gotten into the spirit of celebrating Día de los Muertos with elaborate decorations at their theme parks with the debut of their new Day of the Dead film Coco which introduces the tradition of Día de los Muertos and the "Land of the Dead".

National Chicano Student Walkouts Conference

University of Texas - San Antonio Downtown Campus

November 20-23, 2019

In the late 1960s and early 1970s Chicano students in the Southwest walked out and boycotted classes to force educational and social change. The National Chicano Student Walkouts Conference will be held in San Antonio November 20-23, 2019 to honor the striking students who risked it all to achieve equality and social justice for La Raza.

The Conference will focus on the history and advancement of education and economic opportunities for La Raza. It will bring together faculty, academic researchers, community leaders and the striking students to reflect, analyze and assess the impact that the protests had on improvement of educational and economic opportunities for Mexican Americans.

Oral histories will be collected and archived, a selected collection of Conference papers will be published and a scholarship program designed to motivate current youth to pursue post-secondary education as scholars of the Chicano Movement will be initiated.

The Texas Book Festival connects authors and readers through experiences that celebrate the culture of literacy, ideas, and imagination.

History

The Texas Book Festival (TBF) began with a simple purpose: to bring authors and readers together in a celebration of literature and literacy. Founded in 1995 by Laura Bush (a former librarian and then First Lady of Texas), Mary Margaret Farabee, and a dedicated group of volunteers.

The TBF set out to honor Texas authors, promote the joys of reading, and benefit the state's public libraries. The first Festival took place in November 1996 and is now one of the nation's premier annual literary events, featuring 300 authors of the year's best books and drawing 50,000 book lovers.

Held each fall in and around the majestic State Capitol in downtown Austin, the annual Festival Weekend features a rich variety of author presentations and panels, book signings, cooking demonstrations, programs and activities for kids of all ages, food trucks, and exhibiting vendors from across the state and country.

Si se reciben comentarios, el correo también proporcionará instrucciones para solicitar una audiencia de caso impugnado o reconsiderar la decisión del director ejecutivo. Una audiencia de caso impugnado es un procedimiento legal similar a un juicio civil en un tribunal de distrito estatal.

PARA SOLICITAR UNA AUDIENCIA DE CASO CONTESTADO, DEBE INCLUIR LOS SIGUIENTES ARTÍCULOS EN SU SOLICITUD: su nombre, dirección, número de teléfono; nombre del solicitante y número de permiso propuesto; la ubicación y la distancia de su propiedad / actividades en relación con la instalación propuesta; una descripción específica de cómo se vería afectado negativamente por la instalación de una manera no común para el público en general; una lista de todos los asuntos en disputa que usted envíe durante el período de comentarios; y la declaración "[yo / nosotros] solicitamos una audiencia de caso impugnado." Si la solicitud de audiencia de caso impugnado se presenta en nombre de un grupo o asociación, la solicitud debe designar al representante del grupo para recibir correspondencia futura; identificar por nombre y dirección física a un miembro individual del grupo que se vería afectado negativamente por la instalación o actividad propuesta; proporcionar la información discutida anteriormente con respecto a la ubicación del miembro afectado y la distancia de la instalación o actividad; explicar cómo y por qué el miembro se vería afectado; y explique cómo los intereses que el grupo busca proteger son relevantes para el propósito del grupo.

Después del cierre de todos los períodos de comentarios y solicitudes aplicables, el director ejecutivo enviará la solicitud y cualquier solicitud de reconsideración o de una audiencia de caso impugnada a los Comisionados de TCEQ para su consideración en una reunión programada de la Comisión.

La Comisión solo puede conceder una solicitud para una audiencia de caso impugnada sobre asuntos que el solicitante presentó en sus comentarios oportunos que no fueron retirados posteriormente. Si se otorga una audiencia, el tema de la audiencia se limitará a cuestiones de hecho en disputa o preguntas mixtas de hecho y de ley relacionadas con inquietudes relevantes y materiales sobre la calidad del agua presentadas durante el período de comentarios. TCEQ puede actuar sobre una solicitud para renovar un permiso para la descarga de aguas residuales sin brindar la oportunidad de una audiencia de caso impugnado si se cumplen ciertos criterios.

ACCIÓN DEL DIRECTOR EJECUTIVO. El director ejecutivo puede emitir la aprobación final de la solicitud a menos que se presente una solicitud de audiencia de caso impugnada oportuna o una solicitud de reconsideración oportuna. Si se presenta una solicitud de audiencia oportuna o una solicitud de reconsideración, el director ejecutivo no emitirá la aprobación final del permiso y remitirá la solicitud y las solicitudes a los Comisionados de TCEQ para su consideración en una reunión programada de la Comisión.

LISTA DE CORREO. Si envía comentarios públicos, una solicitud para una audiencia de caso impugnada o una reconsideración de la decisión del director ejecutivo, se lo agregará a la lista de correo para que esta solicitud específica reciba futuros avisos públicos enviados por la Oficina del Secretario Principal. Además, puede solicitar ser agregado a: (1) la lista permanente para un nombre de solicitante específico y un número de permiso; y (2) la lista de correo de Se mantendrá un criterio narrativo y numérico para proteger los usos existentes. Una revisión del Nivel 2 ha determinado preliminarmente que no se espera ninguna degradación significativa en Clear Fork Plum Creek, el cual se ha identificado que tiene intermedios usos en la vida acuática. Los usos existentes serán mantenidos y protegidos. La determinación preliminar puede ser reexaminada y puede ser modificada, si se recibe alguna información nueva.

El Director Ejecutivo de la TCEQ ha completado la revisión técnica de la solicitud y ha preparado un borrador del permiso.
